Editorial

Once again this has been a year of progress for our School and district. Our representatives have recently participated in celebrations to mark the electrification of the railway to Penrith, which will mean a quicker service for our train travellers, and as well an even more rapid growth of the Penrith district.

A second development of the year has been the commencement of a new High School at St. Marys; the establishment of Secondary Classes there has given some relief to our accommodation problems. For other reasons, such as inter-school competition, we are pleased to have another High School so close to us, and as it grows to full stature we shall look forward to friendly rivalry with it.

In offering you the magazine this year, we should like to apologise for our inability to carry out the recommendations received from the Suggestions Box. We are fully conscious of the merits of illustrations in the Class Magazines and would like to see some of them in "The Towers," but we regret that costs of reproduction are prohibitive for us. Concerning the jokes and riddles, questions of authenticity have prevented their inclusion.
